The archives of the American Association of University Women (A.A.U.W.) - Austin Branch span a period of fifty years from the inception of the organization on November 15, 1923 through the end of the 1971-1972 fiscal year. Included in the archives are yearbooks from 1923-1924 through 1972-1973; correspondence on the national, state and branch levels; financial materials such as the treasurer's reports, bank statements, and bills; minutes; membership and resignation lists; scrapbook materials; and bulletins. The archives exhibit the organization's concern with legislative, educational, and community development from its formative years to the present.

The formative years of the A.A.U.W. - Austin Branch, 1923-1924 through 1939-1940 are highly under-represented; scrapbooks and minutes are the main components. There is a gradual increase in material throughout the 1940's so that by the time of the 1950's the material in the archives is highly representative and gives an excellent overview of the organization and operation of the A.A.U.W. - Austin Branch. Material then begins to decline once again from 1960-1961 through 1971-1972.

The American Association of University Women - Austin Branch presented the archives to the Austin Travis County Collection - Austin Public Library at four times: December 8, 1957; January 15, 1965; June 24, 1974; and March 9, 1977. The collection comprises 12 feet of shelf space and consists of 24 hollinger boxes, one of which houses the yearbooks from 1926-1927 through 1972-1973; 1 file drawer of membership cards; 2 oversize minute books, and 12 oversize scrapbooks. All materials are available for research without restrictions.

HISTORY

The Austin Branch of the American Association of University Women (A.A.U.W.) held its organizational meeting on November 15, 1923. At that time, seventy women became its charter members; forty-four of those seventy also became National members for the 1923-1924 year. Officers were elected in November, 1923 and after more than fifty years, the Austin Branch of the A.A.U.W. is still in existence, having had forty-eight presidents between the years 1923 and 1972.

On its second birthday, Friday November 13, 1925, the A.A.U.W. - Austin Branch voted to organize the Austin Library Association for the founding of the first Austin Public Library; this goal was accomplished in the spring of 1926. The Austin Branch of the A.A.U.W. was also instrumental in organizing Austin Woman's Club of which it is a charter club. Other community endeavors sponsored by this organization include annual productions of children's theatre performances, the Bookmobile, and educational fellowships for both national and international scholarship.

The purposes of the Austin Branch of the A.A.U.W., as well as the National organization, are to oversee the legislative interests of the group and the community, to promote educational opportunities to all women, and to actively support the live arts and international relations.

The requirement for membership in the A.A.U.W. is an approved degree from an institution approved by the national Association; and more specifically for the Austin Branch, at least sixty hours of college or university credit from approved institutions.

Several early histories prepared by historians of the A.A.U.W. - Austin Branch are included within the body of the archives.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The archives of the American Association of University Women - Austin Branch were given to the Austin Travis County Collection, Austin Public Library, in four groups: December 8, 1957; January 15, 1965; June 24, 1974; and March 9, 1977. The collection is fairly extensive comprising 12 linear feet of shelf space and consisting of 24 Hollinger boxes, 1 file drawer (metal, 3x5 card), 2 oversize minute books and 12 oversize scrapbooks.

To date, the archives of the A.A.U.W. - Austin Branch represents the period from its organization in 1923 through 1972. Types of materials included are correspondence on a national, sectional, divisional, branch and local level; organizational reports, both operational and financial; membership and resignation information; yearbooks; bulletins; and scrapbooks.

For the years between 1923 and 1949 there is scant material present. The years between 1950 and 1960 are excellently represented. Another decline of material occurs between 1961 and 1972. Materials of research interest are isolated throughout the archives; Conference on the Cause and Cure of War, Child Labor Amendment in the 1920's; A.A.U.W. Milk Fund and Baby Clinic in the 1930's; community war efforts during World War II in the 1940's; purchase of Austin's first Bookmobile in the 1950's; and advances in women's education in the 1960's.

The archives of the A.A.U.W. - Austin Branch is arranged by president's terms; chief correspondents, therefore are the president as well as the treasurer of the branch during that term.

Correspondence relates the Austin Branch of the A.A.U.W. to the parent group in Washington, D.C.; the Southwest section; the Texas division as well as to branch members. All material is available without restriction.

*moved to
CYS 3/27
JH*

Filed chronologically in a hollinger box at the end of the collection, just before the oversize material. Thirty-seven of the fifty years are present; the years between 1928-1928 and 1935-1936 are missing. 1943-1944 is not in the box but can be found in the oversize scrapbook for that date. There is at least one copy, and in many cases two copies of each yearbook; for the year 1957-1958 there are three because each one had some sort of marking in it. It can be noted that one copy of the 1968-1968 yearbook has been clipped and revised for a proof of the 1969-1970 yearbook.
